Postseason

- 15 starts, with a 3.42 ERA (26th) and 7 HR (1st) in 12 games (11 starts),...his lone postseason victory victory with the As in 2001 in Game 2 of the Division Series against the Yankees.

- 39 years, 102 days old, Hudson will become the second-oldest pitcher to make his World Series debut as a starter, behind Jamie Moyer, who was 45 years, 342 days old when he started Game Three of the 2008 World Series (Ellis).

- Made his first career start in the National League Championship Series after tossing more than 200 innings in the NL East the previous six seasons for the Cubs (2007-12), according to Stats, Inc., only two other pitchers had amassed more regular season innings before making their first start in the LCS (Chuck Finley (3,177 2/3) and Juan Marichal (3,071 1/3)).

- Wound up with a no-decision in Game Three of the LCS after allowing four runs on seven hits in 6.1 innings,...the Giants scored four runs in the first inning and Hudson allowed a game-tying solo HR to Randal Grichuk in the 7th before departing,...the Giants won 7-4 in 10 innings.

- Matched up with Ryan Zimmermann in Game Two of the NLDS, a game in which the Giants won 2-1 in 18 innings, not only the longest postseason game in terms of innings (tied), but also the longest in time of play at six hours and 23 minutes. Hudson...with the most of 9.0 innings.

- Veteran right-hander completed this 16th big league season, his first with the Giants, by going 9-13 with a 3.57 ERA in 31 starts.

- The Giants went 17-14 in his starts, going 9-5 at home and 8-9 on the road.

- Went 7-2 with a 1.81 ERA and 223 opponents batting average against his first 13 starts, with the Giants going 11-2 in those outings. However, then went 2-11 with a 5.13 ERA and .308 average in his last 18 starts, with San Francisco going just 6-12.

- Suffered his first losing season (record-wise) in his career as a professional pitcher and his 13 losses were the most of his career.

- His opponents batting average against was 270 as the third-highest of his career (.273 in 2006 and .295 in 2009) and ranked as the ninth-highest among NL pitchers...allowed 9.46 hits per 9.0 innings, the sixth-highest mark in the NL.

- Allowed the fewest-four walks per 9.0 innings in the NL (1.62)...his 34 walks allowed were the fewest of his career in a full season.

- Averaged just 3.61 runs per game, the lowest total of his career, the lowest among Giants starters and the 12th-lowest in the NL.

- Faced 373 right-handed batters and walked just 10 (one every 37.3 PA).

- Induced 335 groundballs, the second-most in the NL behind Cincinnati's Mike Leake (349).

- Allowed opponents to steal 15 of 18 bases off him (83.3%), tied with San Diego's Eric Stults for the third-highest stolen base pct. among NL pitchers (Roberto Hernandez, 88.3%, Mike Leake, 85.7%).

- Set the Giants franchise record (since 1900) for most innings to start a season without a walk at 30.0 innings,...had faced 115 batters before the Indians' Carlos Santana drew a two-out walk in the first inning.

- Placed his name alongside Hall of Famer Grover Cleveland Alexander and the Yankees' Tiny Bonham as the only pitchers in the last 101 years to start a season with at least four walk-less starts of 7.0 innings or more.

- Fashioned a 1.81 ERA through his first 13 starts of the season,...that was the lowest-era for a Giants pitcher in his first starts with the team and with those 13 starts all coming in his first season with the team since 1912.

- Was named to his fourth career All-Star team as a replacement for LHP Madison Bumgarner, who wasineligible to pitch because he threw the Sunday before the break,...marked his first All-Star nod since 2010 with the Braves (was also an All-Star in 2000 and 2004 with Oakland).
